In the background, on the left, a train is seen leaving the region of fountains, churches and winemaking shops, for the BLACK VALLEY COUNTY; further down, after trains are seen. In the foreground a train is leaving DRUNKARD'S CURVE, the last stopping place. In the station conductor is emptying the pockets of travelers, while another is ejecting them from the train. Forward of the station is the FARMER, who is also largely interested in the Road. On the left some travelers who have been carried further than they intended to go, are leaving the train to return by the Temperance Alliance Stages. The right manufacturers are helping out the drunk and dying, who have been thrown out along the Track of the Road. Beyond is seen a part of the BLACK VALLEY DISTRICT, where the land and fields are seen being and making in the tools of the temperance. Further on is DRUNKARD'S CURVE and TRANSPORT, beyond which a train is seen disappearing into DELIRIUMTOWN and DEMONLAND and the moving regions toward the lower mountains of the road.
